A few words from Linda ....

Equestrian athletes come in all shapes and sizes, but what defines all of the true legends of our sport are their attitude and ability to use their mental skills to great advantage.

Unlock your full potential and reach all your riding goals.

Your mindset is a vital part of your riding career, and spending time developing mental skills and techniques to help you will definitely make a difference to your performance on show day!

Linda has the most amazing results - and lots are via zoom calls, so if you are experiencing any type of riding or show problems, a course with her is just what you need.

Many thanks to Annette of Pepperplane - exciting new sponsors in our sport

Pepperplane is a design company that specialises in producing memorable work that is loved by users, our clients and developers alike. We design experiences and interfaces in the digital design realm of UI, UX, illustration, branding, web and mobile development, and animation.

We pride ourselves on our ability to anticipate the needs of users, and believe our work is a creative response to strategic questions. Unlike many other design companies, Pepperplane has an inherent tech foundation, which means that we can create design that integrates seamlessly with software. Developers love working with us because we understand code!

Most of our clients see us as their creative wing. We are involved, open and love to problem-solve alongside our clients. Our ability to synthesise information and translate that into interfaces means our work is thoughtful and considered - beyond just being beautiful.

We firmly believe that every business should have access to great design. In the meantime, we make sure that our clients do.
